News

COVID cases in Freehold Borough including our schools continue to decrease. We are currently reviewing what if any adjustments may be made to our current protocols if any of the state mandates are modified in the coming weeks. It is likely that the approach we will take will be to tie our response to the COVID index (link) for our area in Monmouth County. The COVID index is color coded and Monmouth County is currently orange indicating a high activity level. This report is published weekly and the level can change from week to week as the number of COVID cases reported changes. Tying measures to positivity rates should provide the most deliberate way to modify restrictions as either conditions improve or if they deteriorate again like they did in early January. As any changes are made we will communicate them out in an e-mail blast, on twitter, and through your child's school.

Regards,

Joe Howe
